

In News

UNDER WRAPS - The veil of secrecy around the Sawhney hearing...Page 3

In Style

TWINKLE TOES - NU senior dances for Men in Motion...Page 11.

In Sports

MAKING TRACKS - Northeastern wins Greater Boston Championships...Page 24.

All business from 446 Ell Center by Day Students of Division B. Call 437-4341 for news events, 437-4343 for advertising and 437-2648 for editorial matters.

the NEWS northeastern

Vol. LXI, No. 19

The students' newspaper of Northeastern University, Boston, Massachusetts

Wednesday, February 10, 1988

Defenseman Claude Lodin lifts up the spoils of victory

(News photo by John Tivnan)

Northeastern is top dog

By Jeff Goldberg

The Beanpot trophy is back on St. Botolph Street for another year.

The Team of the 80's, better known as the Northeastern Huskies, captured its fourth Beanpot title of the decade with a convincing 6-3 victory over the Boston University Terriers, Monday night, before a frenzied capacity crowd in the Boston Garden.

Bruce Racine, who made 25 saves in the championship game, was named tournament MVP. Racine compiled two-game totals of 50 saves and a 1.50 GAA.

"I think these two games were his finest. He must like to play in front of a big house

The Winners...

Beanpot champions and Most Valuable Players in the 1980s

Year	Winning Team	MVP
1988	Northeastern	Bruce Racine
1987	Boston University	Mike Kelfer
1986	Boston University	Terry Taillefer
1985	Northeastern	Bruce Racine
1984	Northeastern	Tim Marshall
1983	Boston College	Bob Sweeney
1982	Boston University	Tom O'Regan
1981	Harvard	Wade Lau
1980	Northeastern	Dave Archambault

because he made some super saves. He's always played well in the Garden," said head coach, Fern Flaman.

Flaman wouldn't rank his four Beanpot's in order of greatness but did have to put his first title, in 1980, ahead of the rest. "Well you're first one is always the greatest but the others are a pretty close second. There are a lot of seniors on this team and I'm very happy for them."

It was the seniors who played the most significant roles in leading the Huskies to victory. Paving the way were Racine and senior captain Dave O'Brien, whose two goals in the third period sealed the fate of the Terriers.

(Continued on page 12)

Winners again

By Jon Barkan

It's becoming old hat.

The Northeastern women's hockey won another game Tuesday night but this one was extra special. The 5-1 victory over Harvard at Matthews Arena gave them their fifth consecutive Beanpot Championship. They're 22-0-1 this season.

Complete story and photos on page 13.

John A. Curry
Definite increase

Tuition talk

8% increase likely

By Amy Callahan

Student Government Association Monday.

The cost of attending Northeastern University next year probably will increase by no more than eight percent, Vice President John A. Curry told the

Curry, who attended the SGA's weekly meeting to discuss the university budget, said he believed the

(Continued on page 9)